Introducing

MATRO CLEAN

The Machine that SAVES the Printer MONEY

The life span of linecasting matrices is determined not only by the condition of the machines in which they are employed, but perhaps more importantly by the care given to the matrices.

The most common cause of matrix demise is hairlining; and the scrapping of mats because of this matrix malady is very costly for the owner of a line composing plant.

For many years typesetters have been cleaning mats by various methods which consumed time and energy. Mats are rubbed on fine emery cloth or glass paper to remove "buildup" of hard graphite, dirt, etc. This is a tedious operation, but most effective.

The "Matro Clean" has mechanically emulated this hand operation with the use of a series of brushes through which mats are fed while being inundated in a liquid cleansing agent. When the mat goes through the cleaning and brushing procedure it will again give many hours of good service.

"Matro Clean" was designed to clean the important parts of the mat which constantly cause linecasting problems. However, all parts of the mat are washed by the fluid which is quick drying.

"Matro Clean" in your plant will not help Matrotype sell more matrices since it retards hairlining. Nevertheless, since Matrotype are in business to constantly serve you we feel obligated to help whenever we can - hence, "Matro Clean"!
